Regular attendance and engagement in scheduled instructional sessions are required for all registered undergraduate and graduate courses.

Students must maintain a minimum attendance of 75 percent in each enrolled lecture and seminar course to be eligible to sit for final semester examinations.

Failure to achieve the required 75 percent minimum attendance without Dean-sanctioned excused absence documentation leads to an administrative Grade of FA (Failure for Non-Attendance).

Documented illness, university-sponsored athletic competitions, or official jury duty qualify for Excused Absence consideration.

Official medical certificates from a licensed healthcare provider must be submitted to the Student Affairs Office within five business days following the student return to campus.

Faculty members must afford students with verified excused absences a reasonable opportunity to complete missed graded coursework or designated equivalency assessments.
